

ABSTRACT

A multilayer copper structure has been provided for improving the adhesion of copper to a diffusion barrier material, such as TiN, in an integrated circuit substrate. The multilayer copper structure comprises a thin high-resistive copper layer to provide improved adhesion to the underlying diffusion barrier layer, and a low-resistive copper layer to carry the electrical current with minimum electrical resistance. The invention also provides a method to form the multilayer copper structure.